

Rising Tide ©

Copyright 2015 Robert Lee Rager, all rights reserved

VERSE 1

Sandcastle dreams all swept away nothing left to do but cry no one to save you from your empty island shore no one left to tell you why You can't sail forever on wishes can't reason with a red sky at dawn word to the wise, the mirror never lies but you won't listen when it tells you who was wrong

CHORUS 1

Blame it on the rising tide cost of love, price of pride in too deep with a river too wide
blame it on the rising tide

VERSE 2

Doctor says it's spread to the bone couple of months that's all little boy just wants to go home but six year olds don't make that call And there's no such thing as fair with a broken wing and a prayer, flying blind when even the devil doesn't care there's nowhere, to draw the fault line

CHORUS 2

Blame it on the rising tide fate that chose who lived and who died uphill climb to a downhill slide blame it on the rising tide

BRIDGE

World spinning in the wrong direction forever turning on imperfection strings pulled from the other side Call it choice or call it chance coincidence or circumstance stars align and then collide

CHORUS 3

Blame it on the rising tide universe that can't decide nowhere bound on a forever ride
blame it on the rising tide
Blame it on the rising tide
cost of love, price of pride
in too deep with a river too wide
blame it on the rising tide
blame it on the rising tide

